HealthCare

Women and children have been categorized as a set of the most vulnerable group in the society. The Foundation aims to contribute to the National health outcomes by targeting the improvement of maternal and child health including special health needs of social interest through advocacy, consultation, shared risk of out-of-pocket health expenses and evidence based interventions that will contribute to key National health targets.

Our key area of interventions will include a) Maternal, Newborn and Child health, b) Management of female cancers (Choriocarcinoma, Cervical and Breast cancers), c) Support for Geriatric health care and e) Sexual and Gender Based Violence prevention.

We aim towards achieving the following set of indicators;

- a. Program impact in more than 5000 women and children in the next 5 years of program operations.
- b. Support for management of women cancers for at least 500 women in the next 5 years.
- c. Support to at least 500 Geriatric clients in the next 5 years.
- d. Provide support to at least 5000 girls and women on Sexual and Gender Based violence prevention and supports in the next 5 years.

EDUCATION

The global goal for education is to ensure inclusive and equitable access to quality education. Education outcomes are multi-sector related and as such been placed as a key tool in bridging the equity gap. Global data analysis also showed that education outcome is improved when investment and outcome risk is jointly shared by both the public and non-state sectors

The Foundation aims to contribute to reducing the number of children and youth with no access to equitable learning opportunities. This will be achieved by ensuring that we provide opportunity for equitable access to learning opportunities, improving learning and skills, and improved learning and protection for children in fragile environment through advocacy, consultation, active engagement in shared financial related risk and in-depth community engagement.

The expected outcome of our intervention in the education program will include;

- a. Education scholarship in all forms of learning granted to at least 25% of annual request for support or identified needs for the first 2 years of program operation.

Entrepreneurship

Health and education have been reported to be directly proportionate to the standard of living and economy freedom. Economic improvement has multi-sectorial inputs, however capacity building process through interventions such as skills acquisition and various empowerments has been proven to be key tools for economic independence.

The Foundation in the bid to ensure continuity of interlinked developmental interventions aimed at achieving individual freedom of choice will develop economic empowerment interventions for the most vulnerable groups in the society. This will be achieved through advocacy, consultation and key strategic interventions.

The success of this driver will be measured through the

- a. The number of the most vulnerable assisted with financial emancipation
- b. The number of the most vulnerable assisted with freedom of choice on key social issues

YOUTH AND LEADERSHIP DEVELOPMENT

Youths are agents of political change, the powerhouse of the industrial world, the brain of the computer world. Without capacity, being young is not an asset for leadership.

For young people to be as effective as possible in their leadership roles, their capacity need to be meaningfully built. The Foundation seeks to meaningfully engage and build the capacity of young people in the country. Thus, uniquely positioning them to be effective leaders. Now, more than any other time, young people have the opportunity to take action to lead the country for – good governance, transparency and accountability, universal health coverage, quality education etc. and contributing to public and private service delivery.

The foundation will implement an intentional, pro-social leadership program designed to engage youth leaders within their communities and organizations in a manner that is productive and constructive; recognizes, utilizes, and enhances their leadership strengths; and promote positive outcomes for young people by providing opportunities, fostering positive relationships and furnishing the support needed to build on their leadership strengths.

The programme will be a mentor-based program on leadership, governance, transparency and accountability that is rooted in policy advocacy and community engagement/participation with elements of both online (web-based mentorship) and offline learning (trainings).

Research

When interventions are planned and implemented based on evidence based data, improvement, innovations and outcome are significantly increased. In order to ensure our vision of providing a chance at life for the most vulnerable attain significant impact, all drivers of our strategic objectives will be guided, planned and implemented utilizing evidence based data from research works. We will broaden our research scope to cover both operational and social researches.

The Operational research will be co-lead with other key institutions in a bid to improve our interventions towards achieving the set goals of the organization. Considering that social issues contributes significantly to the outcome of key organizational goals on health, education and empowerment. The Foundation will be conducting social researches in the bid to utilize the research outcomes in advocacy and consultation.

Our research work will be measured in two dimensions;

- a) the actual number of research conducted and disseminated for use, and
- b) the actual number of research work implemented or utilized in policy and Programme implementation.
